

Generations of Scholarship: The Evolution of Coordinated Management of Meaning Theory

Sponsor: Communication as Social Construction Division

Sun, 11/23: 11:00 AM - 12:15 PM

Hilton Chicago

Room: Room 4D - 4th Floor

This discussion panel explores coordinated management of meaning (CMM) theory's evolution, demonstrating growth and utility across diverse contexts. The theory has strengthened and thrived across decades of scholarship, and panelists represent multiple generations of CMM scholarship. Each discussant contributes to theoretical developments and applications from CMM's conception to current outlets. Panelists aim to identify points of convergence and divergence from the original theory tenants and ultimately embrace conversation about the exciting future of the theory.

Chair

Kelly E. Tenzek, University at Buffalo, SUNY - Contact Me

Presenter(s)

Anthony Allanson, Indiana Univ-Purdue Univ, Indianapolis - Contact Me

Natasha A. Barnett, University of New Mexico - Contact Me

Barton D. Buechner, Fielding Graduate University - Contact Me

John Chetro-Szivos, Fitchburg State University - Contact Me

Randy K. Dillon, Missouri State University - Contact Me

John Parrish-Sprowl, Indiana Univ-Purdue Univ, Indianapolis - Contact Me

Katie Margavio Striley, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill - Contact Me

David E. Weber, University of North Carolina, Wilmington - Contact Me

Sponsor/Co-Sponsors

Communication as Social Construction Division